ADEKA FOODS (ASIA) Obtains Kosher certification

ADEKA Corporation (President and Chief Executive Officer: Akio Kohri, hereinafter referred to as "ADEKA") announces today that ADEKA FOODS (ASIA) SDN. BHD. (hereinafter referred to as "ADEKA FOODS (ASIA)"), an ADEKA subsidiary in Malaysia, has acquired kosher food certification for several of its shortening products.

Following its establishment in 2012, ADEKA FOODS (ASIA) acquired Halal certification in November 2014 and Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP) certification in April 2015. The latest kosher certification means that the safety and the high quality of ADEKA's products are recognized at a higher level.

The ADEKA Group will expand sales from its food business and accelerate its overseas operations further by generating new value through the alliance of its bases in Japan, China, Singapore and Malaysia.

* Kosher certification

Kosher certification is a system in which a rabbi with a Judaic qualification (a Judaic clergyperson) certifies the safety of foods in accordance with the doctrine of Judaism after strict inspections are performed of their raw materials and manufacturing processes. The kosher certification enables food manufacturers to print labels and logos stating that their food products are kosher certified on the paper used for wrapping them.
