(2) Reasons for the revision

The full year of consolidated financial forecast has been revised based on the results for the 1st half (interim) consolidated cumulative period announced today and recent performance trends. From the third quarter onward, the outlook is expected to remain uncertain due to factors such as the slowdown in the Chinese economy, the impact of the situation in the Middle East, and trends in automobile production. However, operating profit is expected to exceed the previous forecast (announced on Aug. 9, 2024) due to the expansion of sales of high-value products in the Chemicals business, mainly for the automotive, consumer electronics, and electronic equipment-related industries. Adjustments to ordinary profit and net income are attributable to an increase in operating profit.

Comparison with previous forecast is as follows.

- For electronic materials, both net sales and operating profit were revised upward.
- Sales of polymer additives and environmental materials were revised downward and operating profit was revised upward.
- For food products, net sales were flat and operating profit was revised downward.
- The life sciences has not changed its forecast.

Exchange rate assumptions for 2Q-4Q are ¥152/USD and ¥164/EUR.

(3) Reasons for the revision

We strive to increase our corporate value by expanding our business by strengthening our management foundation and investing in growth business domains from a mid-to long-term perspective. At the same time, we base our efforts on maintaining stable dividends by comprehensively taking into account appropriate returns in light of the business environment, business performance, financial condition, and other factors. In addition, our mid-term management plan ADX 2026 that began in Apr. 2024, sets a target of further raising the dividend payout ratio to 40% or more.

Based on the above policy, the interim dividend was increased by ¥3 per share from the previous forecast of ¥45 per share to ¥48 per share. The year-end dividend forecast has been revised from the previous forecast of ¥45 per share to ¥49 per share, an increase of ¥4 per share. As a result, for the fiscal year ending Mar. 2025, we plan to pay a dividend of ¥97 per share, an increase of ¥7 from the previous forecast of ¥90 per share (an increase of ¥7 from the previous fiscal year results of ¥90 per share).
